

BIG SHOE STRIKE AT LYNN IS ENDED

Twenty Thousand Workers Will Return to Twenty Factories Closed Since Last April.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 20.—Twenty shoe factories, employing 12,000 workers, closed since April 18, will re-open Monday morning as the result of an agreement reached here late yesterday at a conference between representatives of the unions and the manufacturers.

Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, arranged the conference, drew up the agreement, and urged both sides to accept it, in view of their civic responsibilities in times of war. Under the plan arranged, Mr. Endicott will act as arbitrator of the controversy over wages that caused the shutdown of the factories.

The agreement, besides providing for a return to work next Monday, stipulates that the men shall receive the same wages as were paid on April 18, and that labor unions and manufacturers shall agree that there shall be no strike or lock-out for three years.

ALREADY IN TRAINING.

Men in National Army Who Arrived at Ayer Yesterday Busy Today.

AYER, Mass., Sept. 20.—New England members of the drafted army who reached Camp Devens yesterday were in the midst of preliminary training when the movement was resumed today. The number to reach the cantonment during the day was considerably smaller as it was furnished by only two states, New Hampshire and Connecticut.

One hundred Maine men were lost in Camp Devens for more than five hours today, so large is the cantonment. They arrived in Ayer during the night and their cars were sidetracked near the camp. About 7 o'clock coast artillerymen admitted the arrivals at a gate about 2 1/2 miles from the main gate, where new men are examined and registered. The group was seen near division headquarters and at other places in camp during the morning, but at noon, when they had not reached the enrolling booth, cavalrymen were sent to make a search for them.

TO ASK STAY OF SENTENCE.

Counsel for Robert Warm to Submit Legal Questions to Court.

ST. ALBANS, Sept. 20.—C. G. Austin & Sons, counsel for Robert Warm, who was found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of Jennie Hemmingway, said yesterday that they had asked for time to file motions in the case and to take such legal steps as they deemed necessary in preparation.

They said they should ask for a stay of sentence, that the case would go to the supreme court and there would be other legal questions submitted to the court before the case went higher.

Mistakes will happen, but have a better excuse than that for yours.

PRINCESS FRIDAY

BRATTLEBORO LOCAL.

Protective Grange observed children's night last night at its regular meeting and the event proved to be a very interesting one. The evening began with the marching of the little folk who were present. Each one carried a flag and the salute was given in unison. Several girls reported what they had learned during the summer months in the cooking and canning classes. Little Charles Thayer explained his experiences in raising potatoes and Lynn Thayer told what he knew about canning. A word about raising pigs was contributed by Edward McKay and then the following program was taken up: Piano solo, Alberta Knight; recitation, Evelyn Metcalf; song, Alice and Edward McKay; recitation, Frederick Speare; recitation, Elizabeth Franklin; recitation, Edith Adams; song, Mildred Greenwood and Ruth Gay; flag drill, eight small children; America by six little tots; recitation, Bernice Wells; piano solo, Irene Martin; closing, the Star Spangled Banner by Lynn Thayer with all members of the Grange joining in the chorus. Ice cream and other refreshments were served by the birthday club of the order.

When the light begins within himself, a man's worth something.—Browning.

Valley farm Saturday, as a number of which prevented them from attending.

A bountiful dinner was served at noon.
Following a social time Mr. Allen took a load of Grangers for a straw ride over the farm. The horses were in their glee, as they have been accustomed to taking people for a straw ride in the years past. Much credit is due to Mr.
and Mrs. Allen for the pleasant time they made for all who attended the picnic.

Sympathized with Prodigal Son.

Little Willie's mama was a very patriotic lady and had been conserving vir-tuously the food supply by preparing substitutes for this, that and the other thing.

feel like the prodigal son when he was obliged to fill his belly with the husks
that the hogs wouldn't eat."
